

FUTURE COAST

Anne Arundel

August 13, 2012

We are writing to invite you to a briefing on the soon-to-be released results from Anne Arundel's first countywide survey on coastal flooding and sea-level rise risk perceptions and policy preferences. The session will include an audience discussion in which we look forward to comments both about the data and the value of public engagement on this issue.

Karen Akerlof, PhD ABD
Dept. of Environmental Science & Policy
George Mason University
kakerlof@gmu.edu

Katherine E. Rowan, PhD
Dept. of Communication
George Mason University
krowan@gmu.edu

Todd La Porte, PhD
School of Public Policy
George Mason University
tlaporte@gmu.edu

Howard Ernst
Dept. of Political Science
U.S. Naval Academy
ernst@usna.edu

Dan Nataf, PhD
Center for the Study of Local Issues (CSLI),
Anne Arundel
Community College
dnnataf@aacc.edu

Briefing on Results of Anne Arundel County Survey on Coastal Flooding & Sea-Level Rise
Wednesday, September 12th at 7 p.m.
Severna Park Library (Meeting Room)
45 West McKinsey Road
Severna Park, MD 21146

For more information about the project or to RSVP, please contact project manager Karen Akerlof at coast@gmu.edu or (703) 282-1289. The Future Coast initiative is a research effort funded by Mid-Atlantic Sea Grant. You can visit our website at www.FutureCoast.info.

Sincerely,

